The WOTC is a federal tax credit that encourages employers to hire job-seekers with employment barriers by allowing them to recover a portion of the wages paid during the initial period of employment. For many employers, especially small businesses, this tax credit may provide an additional incentive to hire and retain veterans who qualify for the credit. The Small Business and Work Opportunity Tax Act of 2007 extended the WOTC program through August 31, 2011.

Credits for Long Term Family Assistance can be earned for the first two years of employment based on the first $10,000 in wages each year.

- A 25% credit of qualified wages is paid in the first year of employment for employees completing 120 hours but less than 400 hours
- A 40% credit of qualified wages is paid in the first year of employment for employees completing 400 hours or more for a maximum first year credit of $4,000
- A 50% credit of the qualified wages is paid for the second year of employment for a maximum second year credit of $5,000

Is there a limit to the number of employees an employer can claim?

There is no limit on the number of employees for whom the employer can claim the credit.

How does it work?

To apply, employers need only complete two single-page forms and mail them to their state’s WOTC Coordinator:

1. IRS form 8850. This form must be mailed to the employer’s state workforce agency no later than the 28th day after the job applicant begins work. IRS form 8850 is available at: http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-fill/f8850.pdf

2. U.S. Department of Labor form ETA 9061. If the new employee has not been conditionally certified, the employer and/or the new employee must complete, sign and date ETA Form 9061. This form is available from the U.S. Department of Labor at: http://www.doleta.gov/business/Incentives/opptax/.
